

MARKET OVERVIEW

During the second quarter (Q2) of 2021, more progress in vaccine rollouts worldwide, as well as positive corporate earnings reports and economic news, continued to lift equity returns, particularly in developed markets, even as concerns emerged over high valuations. It was no coincidence that cheaper, out-of-favour equities like Listed Property were among the strongest performers, while more expensive sectors like Resources underperformed.

Economic growth surprised to the upside in South Africa as Q1 2021 GDP growth measured 4.6% q/q annualised, notably higher than the 2.5% market forecast. Despite the gradual recovery, Stats SA noted that the economy's absolute size was equivalent to that last seen in Q1 2016, five years earlier. Covid-19 vaccine supplies continued to make their way into the country and the government's vaccination programme made headway, but this progress was overshadowed in June as the third wave of Covid infections gathered pace, driven by the more transmissible Delta variant. This prompted President Cyril Ramaphosa to reintroduce Level 2, and subsequently Level 4, lockdown measures, again curtailing vital economic and social activity.

Meanwhile, the South African Reserve Bank kept its benchmark interest rate unchanged at a record low of 3.5% at its 20 May MPC meeting, warning that slow progress on vaccinations, limited energy supply and policy uncertainty continue to pose downside risks to the economic outlook. This was despite the jump in consumer inflation to 4.4% y/y in April and 5.2% y/y in May, attributed largely to the previous low base. The central bank raised its growth forecasts for 2021 from 3.8% to 4.2%, but lowered its projections for 2022 and 2023 to 2.3% and 2.4% respectively. It is also projecting two 25bps interest rate hikes in 2021.

During the quarter global credit rating agencies S&P and Fitch reaffirmed South Africa's long-term sovereign credit rating at BB-, citing an upturn in near-term economic performance and improved public finances as contributing factors. Moody's, however, postponed its review on South Africa's credit rating, which currently sits at Ba2 with a negative outlook.

The FTSE/JSE ALSI was roughly flat for the second quarter, returning 0.05%, while the FTSE/JSE Capped SWIX All Share Index, which we use as the equity benchmark for most of our client mandates, returned 0.6%. The standout sector was Listed Property (the All Property Index) with an 11.1% total return. Financials delivered 7.5% and Industrials eked out 0.8%, but the Resources Index returned -5.0%. This performance reflected the value still seen in "SA Inc" counters, which have lagged during the recovery, and the growing view that Resources shares may be reaching the end of their bull run.

PERFORMANCE

The fund returned 12.6% (net of fees) for the second quarter of 2021, outperforming its benchmark by 0.5%. For the 12 months ending June 2021, the fund returned 25.3% compared to the benchmark which returned 25.2% over the same period, thereby ensuring the fund achieved its objective of providing a total return equal to or better than the benchmark (after fees).

Overweight positions in Dipula A and B as well as SA Corporate added to relative performance over the quarter, as did underweight positions on Fortress A and B, MAS Real Estate and EPP. Relative positioning in Hyprop, Growthpoint and Resilient detracted from relative performance for the period being measured.

STRATEGY AND POSITIONING

Investor sentiment can swing wildly from extreme pessimism to exuberance. At some point last year, some respected institutional investors in South Africa went so far as to declare the real estate sector as being "uninvestable" due to the lockdowns regulations. The mantra was that we would no longer need shopping malls and could work from home forever. While the lockdowns have no doubt resulted in some changes to habits, we have realised a few things:

- There is still a great deal of activity at shopping malls and tenants want to retain a presence there at the right price.
- Many people would like to return to working in an office, at least for part of the week.
- There is an active, albeit thin, market for assets from private buyers in South Africa and a very robust one in Europe.
- Management teams were not prepared for the downturn appropriately given high starting loan-to-value ratios followed by the subsequent need to withhold dividends and dispose of properties.

The ability of property companies to de-lever organically (via asset sales and dividends withheld, as opposed to equity raised) has no doubt surprised the market positively, as has the fact that vacancies have held somewhat steady, with the exception of the office sector.

In South Africa, we are observing stable vacancies with lower rents and ongoing rent relief to affected tenants in the retail space, with some evidence of tenant failures and downsizing in the industrial space. Unfortunately, the office market has demonstrated weak demand and little pricing power. In contrast, the self-storage segment as represented by Stor-age had an exceptionally robust year as they managed to both grow rents and also occupancy by 'letting up' space.

Cheap valuations in the property sector have attracted some interest from private buyers as well as corporate activity: Growthpoint rebuffed an offer for its stake in Globalworth; Arrowhead and Fairvest announced a likely merger; and the iGroup made a compulsory offer to minorities of Emira. Tower also announced an expression of interest from RDC Properties, based in Botswana, for its entire share capital; while RDI Reit was the subject of a successful bid from Starwood Capital.

The current unrest in parts of the country will no doubt unsettle many investors in the fund. At the time of writing, we assess the immediate impact on the fund's holdings as immaterial in the short term given that landlords are fully insured for destruction and partially insured for the resulting loss of income. Further, the properties affected represent a fraction of their respective portfolios and not all tenants within affected properties were necessarily looted. The secondary effect is that small businesses may not be able to restock given underinsurance or a lack of insurance, while the resultant loss of confidence in the country and likely higher borrowing costs are the likely long-term consequences.

The SA Listed Property Index trades at an 8.4% dividend yield for the year ahead and a 10.3% distributable earnings yield, implying an 82% payout ratio for the sector. We are therefore constructive on the valuations of the sector. Coupled with amendments made to the quantitative process, this should result in excess returns accruing to holders of the fund. ■

Collective Investment Schemes (unit trusts) are generally medium-to long-term investments. Past performance is not necessarily a guide to future investment performance. Unit trust prices are calculated on a net asset value basis. This means the price is the total net market value of all assets of the unit trust fund divided by the total number of units of the fund. Any market movements – for example in share prices, bond prices, money market prices or currency fluctuations – relevant to the underlying assets of the fund may cause the value of the underlying assets to go up or down. As a result, the price of your units may go up or down. Unit trusts are traded at the ruling forward price of the day, meaning that transactions are processed during the day before you or the Manager know what the price at the end of the day will be. The price and therefore the number of units involved in the transaction are only known on the following day. The unit trust fund may borrow up to 10% of the fund value, and it may also lend any scrip (proof of ownership of an investment instrument) that it holds to earn additional income. A Prudential unit trust fund may consist of different fund classes that are subject to different fees and charges. Where applicable, the Manager will pay your financial adviser an agreed standard ongoing adviser fee, which is included in the overall costs of the fund. A Collective Investment Schemes (CIS) summary with all fees and maximum initial and ongoing adviser fees is available on our website. One can also obtain additional information on Prudential products on the Prudential website. The Fund may hold foreign securities including foreign CIS funds. As a result, the fund may face material risks. The volatility of the fund may be higher and the liquidity of the underlying securities may be restricted due to relative market sizes and market conditions. The fund's ability to settle securities and to repatriate investment income, capital or the proceeds of sales of securities may be adversely affected for multiple reasons including market conditions, macro-economic and political circumstances. Further, the return on the security may be affected (positively or negatively) by the difference in tax regimes between the domestic and foreign tax jurisdictions. The availability of market information and information on any underlying sub-funds may be delayed. The Manager may, at its discretion, close your chosen unit trust fund to new investors and to additional investments by existing investors to make sure that it is managed in accordance with its mandate. It may also stop your existing debit order investment. The Manager makes no guarantees as to the capital invested in the fund or the returns of the fund. Excessive withdrawals from the fund may place the fund under liquidity pressure and, in certain circumstances, a process of ring fencing withdrawal instructions may be followed. Fund prices are published daily on the Prudential website. These are also available upon request. The performance is calculated for the portfolio. Individual investor performance may differ as a result of initial fees, the actual investment date, the date of reinvestment and dividend withholding tax. Purchase and repurchase requests must be received by the Manager by 13h30 (11h30 for the Money Market Fund) SA time each business day. All online purchase and repurchase transactions must be received by the Manager by 10h30 (for all Funds) SA time each business day.
